Coloring Page

Cape May Warblers are yellowish-green with tiger stripes on their chest, a white patch on their wings, and a chestnut cheek patch. Cape May Warblers can be found in the northeast region of North America. Their population is steady, with a slight increase recently. They make their homes in trees, such as spruces. Cape May Warblers feed on insects and have a special unique tongue that allows them to sip nectar from flowers and on occasion a hummingbird feeder. They lay about 6 eggs which is the highest of all warblers. Cape May Warblers migrate from the Caribbean in the spring.
