

HAIRY WOODPECKER

Coloring Page

Hairy Woodpeckers are black and white with two white stripes on their head. Hairy Woodpeckers are found throughout North America. They have declined in their population, but are still fairly common. These woodpeckers make their habitat in forests, shade trees, and river groves. Hairy Woodpeckers eat insects, but can be found eating sunflower seeds in backyard feeders. Hairy Woodpeckers are permanent residents, but those that live in the north move south for the winter.
